

Global China
pulse
volume 1 | Issue 2 | 2022

This text is taken from Global China Pulse: Volume 1, Issue 2, 2022. The journal is produced by The People's Map of Global China.

CONTRIBUTORS

Benedicte BULL is a Professor of Political Science at the Centre for Development and the Environment, University of Oslo. She was previously the director of the Oslo Academy of Global Governance and the Norwegian Latin America Research Network. She has researched public–private relations and elites in Latin American development, as well as global governance and institutions. She is currently directing an international research project on ‘Chinese Multilateralism and its Impact on Environmental and Democratic Governance in Africa and Latin America’, funded by the Research Council of Norway.

John M. CARROLL teaches courses on the history of Hong Kong, British imperialism, museums, and tourism in the Department of History at the University of Hong Kong. Raised in Florida, Taiwan, and Hong Kong, he is the author of several books on Hong Kong history and the British presence in early modern China. He is currently writing a book on tourism in Hong Kong history. Carroll is Chair of the Society for Hong Kong Studies.

Han CHENG is an Assistant Professor at the Institute of Geographic Sciences and Natural Resources Research, Chinese Academy of Sciences. His ongoing project examines Global China as a critical intellectual project, focusing on the (re)emergence of Chinese development–area studies, world regional geography, and overseas ethnography. He is also broadly interested in the critical geography of China–Africa cooperation and the Belt and Road Initiative. Han received his PhD from the University of Cambridge and worked as a policy researcher and investigative journalist before joining the academia.

Shofwan Ai Banna CHOIRUZZAD is an Associate Professor at the Department of International Relations, Faculty of Social and Political Sciences, Universitas Indonesia. He also serves as the Executive Secretary of the university’s ASEAN Study Center. His research focuses on the entanglements between multiple scales of governance at all levels. He is focusing on the multi-scalar politics of climate change, palm oil, regional integration, and Islamic finance.

Jessica DiCARLO is a geographer and the Chevalier Postdoctoral Research Fellow of Transportation and Development in China at the University of British Columbia’s Institute of Asian Research and School of Public Policy and Global Affairs. She studies global China in Asia from an ethnographic perspective and has worked in Tibet, Nepal, Laos, and India. Her research has been published in Transactions of the Institute of British Geographers, Geoforum, Ecology and Society, Area, and Ambio, and she co-edited The Rise of the Infrastructure State (Bristol University Press, 2022).

Miriam DRIESSEN is an anthropologist and a member of the editorial board of Global China Pulse and The People's Map of Global China. Her work explores Chinese-led development from below, looking at issues such as migration, labour, gender and sexuality, language, and, more recently, law. She is the author of Tales of Hope, Tastes of Bitterness: Chinese Road Builders in Ethiopia (Hong Kong University Press, 2019).

Michael DWYER is an Assistant Professor of Geography at Indiana University Bloomington. He is a political ecologist who studies agrarian change, environmental governance, and infrastructure development in Southeast Asia. He has conducted fieldwork in Laos and Cambodia on the social and legal geographies, as well as the policy trade-offs, of large-scale land deals, land titling, new road and energy infrastructure, and carbon forestry/REDD+.

Anastasia FRANTZESKAKI has been living in Piraeus since she was born, in 1964. She holds a PhD in sociology from the University of Essex and has been working in the Piraeus Port Authority for the past 36 years. Anastasia is a member of the board of the Federation of Workers in the Greek Ports and an active member of the civil society of Piraeus.

Anthi GIANNOULOU was born and lives in Piraeus. She is a Supreme Court lawyer with postgraduate studies in public law. She worked on maritime law and as an inhouse lawyer in shipping companies for 15 years. For the past 10 years, she has been specialising in cases related to ports, the protection of the cultural and marine environment, and consumer rights.

Denise Y. HO is Associate Professor of twentieth-century Chinese history at Yale University. Her first book, Curating Revolution: Politics on Display in Mao's China (Cambridge University Press, 2017), studies the role of exhibitions and material culture in political movements. With Jennifer Altehenger, she edited a volume entitled Material Contradictions in Mao's China (University of Washington Press, 2022). Her current research examines the history of the Hong Kong–China border.

Arthur KAUFMAN is an editor at China Digital Times, and an editorial assistant for the Made in China Journal and Global China Pulse journal. He graduated from the dual master's degree program between Sciences Po and Peking University, where he studied human rights and international relations. Previously, he was a Writing and Speaking Fellow at NYU Shanghai.

Petra KJELL WRIGHT is Campaigns Manager at Recourse. She has previously worked at organisations such as the Bretton Woods Project, Progressio, the New Economics Foundation, and the World Development Movement, focusing on social and environmental accountability, including climate change. Petra holds an MSc in Development Studies from SOAS, University of London, a BSc in Social Science from University of Stockholm, Sweden, and a PGDip in Environment and Sustainability from Birkbeck, University of London.

Juliet LU is an Assistant Professor at the University of British Columbia in Vancouver, in the Department of Forest Resources Management and the School of Public Policy and Global Affairs. She is a political ecologist focused on the implications of China's growing investments in land and other resources in Southeast Asia and beyond.

Rui Jie PENG is Assistant Professor of Sociology at Lafayette College, Pennsylvania. Her research interests include labour, gender, migration, race and ethnicity, and political and transnational sociology. Her current book project is an ethnography of the understudied ethnic Qiang women and their labour practices in a migrant-sending community in Sichuan Province, China.

Antulio ROSALES is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Political Science at the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton, Canada. His research interests coalesce around the political economy of resource extraction and the politics of digital currencies in Latin America.

Ute RÖSCHENTHALER is Extracurricular Professor of Anthropology at Johannes Gutenberg University Mainz, Germany. She is one of the Principal Investigators in the collaborative research project 'Cultural Entrepreneurship and Digital Transformation in Africa and Asia' and leads a research project on African textile markets. Her research areas include economic anthropology, intellectual property, trade networks, and cultural mobility, with a regional focus on West and Central Africa and Africans in Asia. Her most recent book is A History of Mali's National Drink: Following the Tea Ritual from China to West Africa (Brill, 2022).

Kelsey SHAW is a recent graduate of Renaissance College at the University of New Brunswick, having studied interdisciplinary leadership concentrating on political science and economics. She is the 2022 recipient of the New Brunswick Lieutenant Governor Silver Medal and the Larry Collins Prize for Best Undergraduate Essay in Political Science. Her research interests include development economics and international relations.

Konstantinos TSIMONIS is researching the Belt and Road Initiative's social and environmental footprint in Southeast Europe. He is a member of the editorial board of The People's Map of Global China/Global China Pulse and works at the Lau China Institute, King's College London.

Trissia WIJAYA is an honorary postdoctoral fellow at the Asia Research Centre, Murdoch University, Perth. Over the past few years, she has worked with multinational agencies including the United Nations Development Programme and the Asian Development Bank and helped to inform technical expertise, programming, and policy related to infrastructure development and women in research and development and technology.

Pei-hua YU is a senior consultant specializing in Chinese overseas investment and clean energy transition in the Global South. She was an award-winning journalist whose reportage elucidating the dynamics surrounding foreign direct investments in Asia's frontier and emerging economies triggered vigorous discussion in China and internationally. Her work was published by the South China Morning Post, The People's Map of Global China, and Phoenix Weekly, among others.

Hong ZHANG is a China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellow at the Harvard Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation. Her research interests include China's political economy, international development cooperation and foreign aid, and the global expansion of Chinese state-owned enterprises.

Jingjing ZHANG is a prominent Chinese environmental lawyer, the founder of the Center for Transnational Environmental Accountability (CTEA), and a Lecturer in Law at the University of Maryland School of Law. She earned her MA degree in public administration from Harvard University Kennedy School of Government and her law degrees from Wuhan University and China University of Political Science and Law.

Annah Lake ZHU is Assistant Professor of Environmental Policy at Wageningen University in the Netherlands, a veteran of the United Nations Environment Programme in Geneva, and a former Peace Corps volunteer in Madagascar. She is the author of Rosewood: Endangered Species Conservation and the Rise of Global China (Harvard University Press, 2022). Her work has been published in Science, Geoforum, Political Geography, World Development, and American Ethnologist.